PRES. HARDING WOULD MAKE END OF WARS

LONDON, July 11.—President Harding's note regarding a conference on the limiting of armaments was received by the United States embassy here yesterday and forwarded to Ambassador Harvey, who was in the country. The ambassador went to Chequers Court and saw Premier Lloyd George there. This morning the subject is understood to have been discussed by the British cabinet here.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The course of the United States was definitely set toward two goals of international importance—limitation of armament and solution of problems involving the Pacific and the Far East. President Harding, it was revealed in a state department announcement published today, has approached, with informal but definite inquiries, the governments of Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, to ascertain whether it would be agreeable to those nations to participate in a conference to be held in Washington and agree upon a date for the discussion of armament limitation. He has further suggested to the nations interested in the problems of the Pacific and Far East that there be undertaken in connection with the armament conference "the consideration of all matters bearing upon their solution with a view to reaching a common understanding with respect to principles and policies in the Far East."

The state department announcement said that if the proposal for a limitation of armament conference were found acceptable, formal invitations for the conference would be issued. Whether any response to the enquiries directed to the allied and associated powers have been received by the president was not indicated in the department announcement. For that reason great popular interest was attached to the statement by Lloyd George, the British premier, pronounced for today and which London advice have indicated would touch upon the matters initiated by Mr. Harding.

Have Done With Wars
London July 11.—While most of the morning papers had not had time to write editorials on President Harding's

WEST'S POPULATION IS NOW 2,883,192

WINNIPEG, July 12.—The Tribune carries the following from its Ottawa correspondent today:

A preliminary estimate of the census department released today places the 1921 population of Canada at 2,833,000, with all provinces except Nova Scotia showing substantial gains, the grand total for the decade since 1911 being augmented by 2,025,000.

"According to the same figures Western Canada's population this year is 2,833,192 persons, as against the 1911 figures of 1,633,542. This includes Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia."

ine's statement owing to the lateness of the hour, it was given out—all of them display it conspicuously. Several reveal their second editions in order to give a greater prominence, adding a few appreciative words in introductory notes.

The Mail declares that the President's message surprises in importance all other doings, of whatever moment, and describes it as "practically an appeal to the human race to have done with wars."

The Telegraph calls it an act of first historic significance, adding that the president's earnestness of purpose and breadth of vision will be received with the warmest tribute.

The Daily Express declares: "It is a bright sunny day for the peace of the world that the president has now dissolved the fog of mystery which has clouded the question of international disarmament. This country will gladly respond to the call."

Triumph for Premiers

LONDON, July 11.—(By Grant O'Leary, Staff correspondent of the Canadian Press).—President Harding's invitation for a conference by the principal allied and associated powers on disarmament and Pacific problems was accepted here as a decisive triumph for the conference of premiers. Put forward by the Dominion in a communication to the British government as early as last February, and advocated in the empire congress by Premier Meighen, the result ought to be particularly gratifying to Canada indeed, and it is admitted here that without the prime minister's guidance by the dominion premiers, President Harding would not have been in a position to risk such a declaration as he has made.

The offer, of course, will be accepted at once, but it is not expected that the proposed conference, probably the most momentous of its kind that the world has seen—not excepting the historic assembly at Versailles, can be brought together until some time in November.

The proposal as understood here is that there should be two conferences, the first to deal with disarmament and including all of the important world powers, and the second conference to take up Pacific problems and to be confined to the nations with special interests in the Pacific.

German militarists have just conducted a joyful celebration of the anniversary of the return of the German army after the Franco-Prussian war in 1870, the race is inordinately cheerful.

The Turks are threatening to accept the aid of the bolsheviks against the Greeks. One would think that the Turks had enough experience in picking the wrong sort of allies.

CANDIDATES CONTESTING NUMBER 159

Government	58
Conservative	13
United Farmers	44
Labor (official)	10
Independents	34
Total	159

Liberals and Farmers Tuesday lined up their official forces in preparation for the election in Alberta on Monday next of a new legislature. Tonight there are 159 candidates in the field of whom 58 are supporters of the Stewart government and 44 are candidates of the United Farmers of Alberta. There are 13 Conservatives, 19 Labor candidates and 34 Independents.

Premier Charles Stewart was returned by acclamation for Sedgewick, a rural constituency. No other candidate is returned unopposed. The government has candidates for 58 out of the 61 seats, exceptions being Lethbridge, Claresholm and Okotoks. The Farmers are testing public feeling in Calgary and Edmonton. There are three straight Labor candidates in Edmonton and Calgary and one Socialist in each city. The Independents candidates represent great variety in political opinion and seven in Calgary under this heading include "Baby" Edwards, publisher of the Eye Opener. There are 36 rural constituencies where Liberal and Farmer candidates are meeting in straight two-candidate contests. These include the ridings where all of Premier Stewart's cabinet colleagues are seeking election. Hon. J. R. Boyle is running in Sturgeon, as well as in Edmonton City; Hon. Duncan Marshall, in Olds; Hon. J. L. Cote in Grouard; Hon. A. J. McLean in Taber; Hon. C. R. Mitchell in Bow Valley, and Hon. George P. Smith in Camrose. Charles Plafie, speaker in the last house, is opposed by a Farmer in Redcliff.

Twenty-six candidates were nominated in Edmonton and 20 in Calgary. In each case the five with the highest total will be elected. Two members are running in Medicine Hat, where two government candidates are opposed by a Farmer-Labor combination. In Lethbridge J. S. Stewart, Conservative, is opposed by John Marsh, Labor.

Eight women are in the contest. Mrs. Nellie McCullough is on the government ticket in Edmonton, and Mrs. Fred Langford in Calgary. Mrs. L. C. McKinnon is the Farmer candidate in Okotoks, and Mrs. Walter Parby, president of the United Farmer Women of Alberta, is fighting under the same banner in Lacombe. Mrs. Elizabeth Ferris is an official Conservative candidate in Edmonton. Mrs. Annie Gale is an independent in Calgary. Mrs. Mary Cuthbert is a Labor candidate in Edmonton, and Mrs. Marie Melard in Edmonton is the representative of the Socialist party.

The real surprise furnished in this riding the government's forces put J. M. Glenenden, a former member in the running at the last election. His Farmer opponent is H. Galbraith of Vulcan.

A PHYSICAL IMPOSSIBILITY

A very stout woman always had the habit of buying two seats when she went to the theatre, in order that she could have plenty of room. The other afternoon she telephoned for two seats and in the evening appeared as usual to claim them. Passing inside she handed the two tickets to the attendant.

"Where is the party who is going to use these tickets?" he asked.

"I am going to occupy both seats myself," explained the stout one.

"Then you do it," said the attendant, "these two seats are in two different rows."

WOMEN WILL VOTE AT THIS ELECTION

For the first time in the provincial elections in Alberta women will have the vote. All persons, male and female, of the full age of 21 years, who are British subjects by birth, who are not insane, and who have resided in Alberta at least one year, and in the electoral division in which they seek to vote for at least three months immediately preceding the date of the issue of the writ of election, are entitled to vote, provided they are not disqualified under any of the provisions of the Act.

DE VALERA ON WAY TO MEET LLOYD GEORGE

DUBLIN, July 12.—Irish republican leaders chosen to participate in the conference to be held with British government authorities in London on Thursday left Dublin this morning for London. They were Eamon de Valera, leader of the Irish Republicans; Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Féin; Martin Stack and Robert C. Barton, the last two named being Sinn Féin members of the British parliament.

The delegates were accompanied by Laurence O'Neill, lord mayor of Dublin, and by Count Plunkett.

Not Cut and Dried
LONDON, July 12.—The parliamentary correspondent of the London Times says the arrangements for the meeting of Mr. Lloyd George and Eamon de Valera are not to be "cut and dried," adding that General Smuts is not to be present at the opening of the interview, but that it is understood if Mr. de Valera desires the overseas dominions represented formally or informally, "his wishes will meet with cordial acquiescence."

The correspondent states that Mr. Lloyd George is prepared to see the representatives of the Sinn Féin by himself or have with him such other member of the government as may appear desirable in view of the development of the discussions. It is predicted that the early discussions will be on broad principles, with the later stages probably devoted to the setting up of committees to deal with particular subjects.

The Times says that while Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, who returned to Belfast last night owing to the outbreak of disorders, is absent, the Marquis of Londonderry, minister of education in the Belfast parliament, however, remained in London. Sir James, it is declared, is prepared to return at any moment.

Will Explore Possibilities
The plan of Thursday's interview, according to the correspondent, will be in the words of the premier, "to explore to the utmost the possibility of a settlement." His aim first being to discover whether the general lines of settlement can be marked out.

Cultivation Of Flax

The opportunity that exists for the cultivation of flax and the probability of a ready market being found for all that Canada can produce is suggested by the fact that the production of flax in Russia fell from 1,151,000,000 pounds in 1913 to 90,282,000 pounds in 1920, a drop of over a billion pounds.

In view of this state of affairs increased attention is being given by scientists in this country to research work regarding the growth of flax. A series of plots of new varieties have been sown at Ottawa to be harvested for their purposes. The flaxseedlings have been made to carry on the retting under suitable conditions so that the quality of the fibre may be fairly representative in order that the different sorts can be easily compared. There are two principal grades of flax fibre, warp and weft, which are further divided according to qualities. Warp is generally broader fibre, stronger and more ribby flax, and the yarn spun from this is used by weavers for the longitudinal threads of the cloth. Weft is soft, more pliable flax, not necessarily so strong as warp, and is used for the yarn which grows in the shuttle running across the cloth to fill it up. The value of flax is primarily dependent on its strength. The color should be uniform, but spinners do not attach much importance to color as they need to do provided that the substance has the required strength and quality. Silkenness and luster are not considered a high standard. The removal of all slime and dirt from the flax, especially at the root ends, is another necessity.

THE DIAMOND
(No. 2)
ITS FORMATION

Unlike many of the other gems, the diamond is found as a separate unit, unattached as it were, in gravel or in massive clay, from which it is usually washed or separated, whereas many of the other stones, such as the opal, turquoise, amethyst, etc., are found in a matrix rock, appearing somewhat as veins in marble, and from which they are cut.

In its natural or rough state the diamond has an adamantine lustre, a rather "greasy" feeling, and resembles curable in appearance. The diamond is found in grey, brown, yellow, white, green, blue and black colors. Some of these are very rare indeed, and because of this are correspondingly valuable as specimens.

The white—the pure "steel-blue" white—is of course the ideal and most prized color as a gem. There is an old saying to the effect that "a little learning is a dangerous thing." Just so with color in a diamond. A slight yellow tint, for instance, which is known as "off color" or "blue-water," effects the value of a diamond very seriously, whereas deep, bright, canary color, because of its rarity, adds immensely to its value. For every pure-white diamond you will find hundreds of off-color stones, but if A. Wright diamonds are never off-color. Quality first in our slogan. Next week we will tell what is meant by the term "Carat."

A PRE-WAR MODEL

A maiden lady of olden days became very indignant when the census official asked how she was. "Did you see the girls next door?" she asked—"the Hill twins?" "Certainly."

"Well," she snapped, "I'm just as old as they are."

"Oh, very well," said the official, and he wrote in his book: Sarah Stone, as old as the hills.

RATHWELL RIPPLES

Mr. Alfred Mullman has been appointed enumerator for the district.

Corporal Howard Clarke of the R. C. M. Police, wife and family were visiting with relatives in the district this week.

Summer fallowing is general all over the district. There is still moisture enough in the soil to expedite this work.

Church services were held in the Rathwell school last Sunday evening. There was a very fair attendance.

The dance last Friday evening was a very pleasant affair, but the attendance was slim. The Glenfields orchestra was in attendance.

The recent heavy rain came at an opportune time and did an immense amount of good. Fields that had been languishing for days have picked up wonderfully. There was no hail.

Mr. W. H. Shields' supporters are doing their utmost to win him votes in the approaching election contest. We hope to see him elected by an overwhelming majority. With Mr. Shields it was a case of the office seeking the man, not the man seeking the office.

The Waterton Lakes is a favorite resort these days, many farmers with their families motoring out to the mountain pleasure ground of late.

Talk about the price of young pigs and sheep! The price of these animals now is at an all-time low. It is not too high when one takes into consideration the pleasure there is in watching the growth of the wee piglets for three or four months.

The roads in the district are receiving much needed attention.

Mr. W. H. Day has several acres of potatoes which at present date promise a good yield.

The old Primrose place, planted to wheat this spring, was badly infested with cutworms and had to be summer fallowed. Hard luck, Billie.

The Rhyming Optimist

LOCATED

(By Alice Michaela)

Can't tell you how Billy spends time since school is over, where he wanders with his friends (grown-ups can't discover). Still, we glean from hints he drops kids have changed but little, keeping tabs on berry crops, always keen to whistle; digging 'wiggly worms for bait, smoking out and swimming, learning where the currents wall, while the pole is brimming. Bigger may be on the links, somewhere in the daff, playing golf with Mr. Jinks while the caddy's scolding. Or she's at the tennis court, serving balls right widdy; sister is a fendi for sport, just to mix it mildly. Even mother's hard to find in this summer weather; she and others of her kind sit at bridge together. House is still, no laugh or chat, not a person stirring, silence reigns; the car starts her placid purring. No, this estimate is wrong, for we've skipped, unobserving, dad, who pines up the thorough, is at home and reading. High-brow here is not the sort that keeps daffily busy, but he reads the page of sport till his brain is dizzy. In the quiet house that shuttles while the upper cut Jack is likely plotting. Others of the clan may man, play about and prattle; dad is sitting tight at home, reading of the battle.

A HOT DAY

Dreams—desires fulfilled—forsake me when the rebins awake me. See the dawn; And I lie a bit and ponder where the lovely weather yonder

Can be gone. Then I rise—the operation starting sends of perspiration

Yet it seems a gain if one does rise a bit before the sun does, Anyhow.

Then I cut an awkward cap receding the morning paper. From the step—

(Clad in courage and pajamas, this requires a Colton drama's Brand of pop!)

Now comes one my spirit's leap at. Bearing treasure that were cheap at Any price.

O scraggly, O cherubic leeman, with your dripping cubic Foot of fool

Once, there was some Schlitz to proffer—now the best that I can offer

In a mug. Of some dreadful home-made brewage that is dreadfully like seaweed.

From a jar. Up the sun leaps, up the neighbors, To resume the horrid labors

Each one leather— And (for fear it might not warm us) each must now assume enormous

Wads of clothes! Ted Robinson in Cleveland Plaindealer.

Bobbie and His Pa

By William F. Kirk

Well, well, and Pa when he was giving the paper last night, well, here's some more about the horse named Humorist that won the English Derby, said Pa. Well, well, why all them wells? said Ma. What of it?

Humorist, that is a funny name for a English horse, said Pa, the I suppose that's nobility, a name in name.

It sounds like a good name to me, said Ma, humorists is grate people in this and that.

But for a horse, said Pa, I mantain that it's a punk name, unless maybe if you give the horse half so much that they named it Humorist, said Pa.

Have you got any grand problems with which to bother your head with? said Ma. This is quite warm weather to be fussing over the name of a English horse, said Pa.

Nams don't cut to ice anyhow, after all, said Pa. My parents named me Calvin for my middle name, and Pa, but you believe it, and Pa, I never became deeply religious, said Pa.

Yes, I believe it, said Ma. You are a very free thinker, Calvin, and Ma to Pa. I believe I will call you Calvin after this, said Ma. Is kind of fit you, it is kind of cute, said Ma.

You know, do you and Pa, well, never call me that in front of our friends presence, and Pa. I will not break it to Pa.

Dear me, said Ma, you will not break it. I guess you will break it and then over-look it, said Ma. How is that for poetry? Not bad, is it, Calvin, said Ma.

I am sorry I ever memorized that name to you, said Pa. Now I will never hear the end of it.

I am glad I am named Bobbie and not no fancy name I said. There is a kid at school named Bert-rim, I said. He is all over freckles & cross-eyes, I said.

That is nearly always the way with it, barked peepal, and Pa, they give three kids names like Genevieve, Eternally Vivia, and Pa, when I should fit more better, said Pa. They read them names in novels & then they tick them on three book kids, said Pa.

Pa, that is why I gived you a plain, simple name like Bob-rim, said Pa. My father was like that, and Ma, his name was Upton, read Pa, but mother always called him U for short, and Ma.

A lot of the time she called him Down, too, said Pa, I used to hear her when I was calling on you, said Pa.

Then Ma looked at Pa Pa, said Pa, but she didn't say anything. Ma is studying sun kind of science which says Never be marry & never think no long. It is pretty good done at that, believe me, & that is all for this time.

SORRENTO

I sing of the cliffs that descend to the bay lying back of the foot. And see in the waters they bend to. Their gardens all golden with fruit.

Of pines, too, their perfumes out-cend. From cloud-covered peaks far away. Of landscapes where colors are blending.

A fresh every hour of the day. Sorrento, then beautiful charmer. Try musical name I adore. Like winds in the leafage that shimmer.

And flipples that lapse on the shore. —Count Carl Snialsky (tr. by C. W. Storck).

Mr. King & Mr. Meighen

Speeches by political leaders are made presumably for the purpose of inducing electoral support. It is difficult to imagine a leader making speeches for the purpose simply of bearing his voice sound in a hall. This being so, there is some ground for wondering just what Mr. Mackenzie King thinks he is accomplishing by the speeches he is delivering in Quebec, if their scope and character are truly indicated in the summary carried in the Canadian Press reports.

A Dominion general election is due within the year; and it is most proper that Mr. King should take advantage of the parliamentary recess to put his views before the electors. There is no lack of subjects to talk about. The railway problem and how it should be solved; immigration and customs tariff; soldiers' settlement; our international position; our future relationship with the other British dominions; and these and a dozen other questions Mr. King could speak with authority, and being given a careful, if critical, attention. And if by his treatment of these questions he has the minds of his hearers and readers the impression that he is the stuff of which premiers are made, he would stand him in good stead against the day when the ballots drop into the box.

But this repetition day after day of the same song as Mr. Meighen has assured people is and having the joy-ride of an autocrat in defiance of constitutional usage—and that sort of thing—is, we think, very tiresome to the public; and is likely to give them the idea that Mr. King is the kind of a man quick to discover openings and prove to make an obsession out of them. Mr. King, it is true, tries to put his argument in terms of the public interest; but his words leave an impression upon many minds that he is obsessed by a feeling of personal disappointment at being kept out of his rightful place, the premiership, by Mr. Meighen's unscrupulous tactics to quit.

The question as to whether Mr. Meighen should have gone to the people when he took the premiership is a matter of opinion; and it is an overstatement for Mr. King, it was the opinion of Mr. Meighen that wanted, so long as he could maintain a parliamentary majority. Parliament is elected for five years; there is no way by which a dissolution can be forced short of that time unless the majority of the house so wills it. The majority of this parliament have decided to hang on; they have chosen Mr. Meighen to lead them, and upon his right to the premiership being challenged they have chosen him to remain in office.

All the necessary technical requirements have thus been met for the validating of Mr. Meighen's position; he is premier by the rules of the game, (which he has chosen to apply to all their rights), and it is an overstatement of the case against him to say that he is "usurping" and "autocratic." It is a legitimate charge against Mr. Meighen that he has not made a social and party advantage to the public interest when, upon taking office in July, 1919, he did not dissolve parliament and submit his programme to the electors. His programme goes into the indictment against him, and the government, and will be passed upon by the electors when they come to give judgment. It is quite in order for Mr. King to include a condemnation of the government for this failure in his criticism of the government; but he ought not to let it take possession of his mind and become the chief burden of his public deliverances.

If, moreover, Mr. King's remarks are to be interpreted as a demand for an immediate general election, he is not advocating a policy in the public interest. Mr. Meighen's "usurpation" can be substantiated for a sufficient farther period of time to enable a redistribution to be made. The government's position, already precarious, has been weakened since the rising of parliament, and perhaps the tale of its misfortune is not yet told. It may be that it will be impossible for it to carry on in normal fashion. Another session in that case there should be an agreement between the opposition and the government, and followed by an election. But if Mr. King, through undue egotism, is instrumental in precipitating a dissolution before redistribution, he will not help his cause. Any such outcome of a parliamentary manoeuvre would be apt to be regarded by the West as a collective effort by the opposition and the government to rob the West of its proper representation in the next parliament.—Winnipeg Free Press (Liberal).

Macleod Fair Promises To Be The Best Yet

The Macleod Fair is drawing near—only three short weeks before the Agricultural over the top of the year takes place.

Farmers, are you getting ready? What about the horses, cattle, hogs and poultry? Look them over right now, and make sure they are in the best of condition. You know that for live stock the prices offered at Macleod fair are larger than any other fair in the province outside of the large exhibitions? If you haven't got a prize list, get one at once from the Secretary. From all accounts at present, the exhibitors of live stock will far exceed the number of entries of the past five or six years. The live stock exhibits are the main features of the fair, especially to the farmers. Get in line and swell the list of entries and make the Macleod fair the best and biggest live stock fair in the West. You farmers in the Macleod District can do it, if you will only make a little effort and take a pride and interest in your fair. Don't forget it's the Farmers' Fair, not the Town of Macleod Fair. But town and country must unite and make it a grand success.

The attractions this year will be better than ever. Boucher's big night show is coming with all sorts of new and old young. Sports and baseball tournament will be staged for the first day, when we expect that all lovers of clean sport and baseball fans will come in their thousands with the teams from Claresholm, Gravelly, Picher Creek, and from every place where there are baseball clubs. Macleod, which resulted in a undoubtedly be the big baseball event of the season in Southern Alberta. As you will see, you may depend upon it that it will be, for what Joe says about baseball is always right. On the second day there is a splendid program of horse races and bucking contests, with every hour packed full to the brim with something doing all the time.

So, Farmers and Everybody, get ready for a Big Time on August 2nd and 4th.

SUCCESS

Know this, my friend, that true success means more than riches or a wide, important store of goods laid up. Nay, rather, there are lures.

Which fill the mind, whose store alone endures.

No words have power to either make or mar. What we have made of life is what we are.

And true success comes not until the soul Seeks God and finds in Him its highest goal.

BASEBALL

The baseball fans in Macleod were on Tuesday night treated to one of the best exhibitions of ball that have been given on the local diamond for many months. The occasion was the looking of home team Colquhoun Macleod, which resulted in a win for the local boys by a score of 7 to 3.

There is no doubt whatever that the Macleod bunch deserves the credit as the players for the local boys, and as practically every one of the outstanding players for the team were away pitching, Johnathan cutting, Avery in the field, and the home team, the last named boy received a great hand from the spectators by the brilliant plays he pulled off, and had there been any "pro snobs" watching the game they certainly would have intervened in this young sentiment regarding his future in the baseball world. Best, playing on second, also put over some excellent plays, and Ferguson was well up to his usual form. The foregoing is not to say Colquhoun was weak, as they had a strong aggregation—one of the strongest the locals have been up against. They played a fine, clean, sporty game from start to finish, and the home team, supported by Sweet in the catcher box, proved a very formidable combination. And there's no doubt they will give a good account of themselves should they again clash with the Macleod boys this season.

Don't forget the game on Tuesday night, Benedict vs. Singles. This is going to be some game, and the locals, if not, and according to the wife of the local boys, several dark horses running and training for the occasion. There is some dispute at the present time as to the local boys, married or not, as both sides want to claim him; also there is a rumor that J. Swanson will umpire, and half-ferty on bases.

WEDDING

Gillespie-Forster. The report of the marriage of Miss Forster and J. Gillespie, as appearing in last week's issue of the Times, was incorrect in several details. The following is in correct order: The wedding of Miss Adelle Myrtle Forster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Forster, of Mul Lake, to John Gillespie of Macleod, took place Tuesday, June 28th at the home of Rev. J. Macnamy Wilson, Calgary, who officiated. They left home by motor, staying over Sunday night at Mr. and Mrs. Nott Smith, Calgary, and then to Calgary, Banff, Lake Louise and Moraine Lodge, returning home Saturday, July 2, where they will make their home, in Macleod.

NEED OF TODAY

What is needed most is a return to a standard of public conduct which was practised, or at least recognised, by the best governments of the world before the war, and which now have been shaken, if not shattered, by the domination of the selfish idealist spirit that governments should act according to the Sermon on the Mount—though they well might study it as a good deal more than they do. I am only saying that they must go back to the standard of veracity, of honesty, of honesty and economy and of the ideal of co-operation in domestic and international affairs.

It is not that it is enough. It is emphatically not enough; we need in foreign policy and home policy a higher standard than we had before the standard implied by the League of Nations in international affairs and the ideal of co-operation in domestic affairs. But the first thing is to recover our wholesome traditions.

Few serious students of public affairs will dispute that the long strain of the war, confining our ideas of good and evil, and at times centering our hopes upon things which a normal mind would regard as mere trifles, has resulted in a widespread degradation of the moral character. Things are now in time of peace which would have been inconceivable before 1914.

NO TIME LIKE NOW

The chap who had perished in walking on the edge of the cliff of the sea wall presently tumbled into the water, and while splashing mightily yelled at the top of his lungs: "Help, help, I can't swim!"

"Well, young fellow," was the cool observation of the life preserver who stood looking on, "I'd say that now is certainly the time, if ever, for you to learn—Life."

Reach & Co.

The long expected rain has come at last and for which we are duly thankful. It means a more hopeful future. For the meantime our pocket will be as thin as ever. Buyers will have to be frugal and careful in their purchases. "There is many a slip twixt the cup and the lip." Yet in spite of pessimistic outlooks we may be hopeful of a certain amount of food for the live stock. The past four years have taught us that we can't live by grain alone, but have to depend on cattle, pigs and fowl. They are half the farmer's living. The merchants and farmers have many a weary wait still before there ere Easy Street is reached. We will do the best that is possible to ease the depleted purse. Wherever it can be done our profits will be shared with you. We can't put in a large stock of goods yet. The years that have gone left us stranded on the financial reefs. We shall buy what is absolutely necessary and will carefully grain whenever you send to a department store for what in ordinary years should be supplied by us. Our heart is still in the right place, but the past years have fearfully contracted it. Let us hope it may expand with the promise of good times ahead.

Mr. Joseph Hicks made a business trip on the 6th inst. to conduct the defence of a man named Hammer, who was charged with the arrest of a charge of obtaining goods by false pretence. The case was an indictable one, but the justice assumed jurisdiction to try and dispose of the matter in a summary way. When Mr. Hicks arrived he was informed that the man was tried and had plead guilty and would get three years. Thus came the trouble. It was with considerable difficulty that Mr. Hicks got to see his client, as the police refused for a time, but the magistrate being convinced that he had been misled, allowed all privileges and permitted the accused out on Mr. Hicks' bail until the evening. When the court was held it was shown that the court had made several mistakes fatal to the proceedings and that, under the circumstances, no criminal charge could be brought against the man. Mr. Hicks' case was notably one.

Going "upstairs to bed" may become a thing of the past with some people. If the experience of one British officer is generally imitated, Air Commodore E. M. Maitland, flying over Gardington in the stillness of night, suddenly remembered that there would be a meeting which he intended to attend the next morning; so, instead of going to bed, he was casually dropped to his companion, "Can I get a bed here?" He asked of the astonished night watchman, asking apologetically: "The only way to get here on time was to jump 'n bed,' or 'drop off to bed' in the not distant future?"
